

KENDALL COUNTY ADMINISTRATION BUILDING PROJECT HIGHLIGHTS

When constructing a county administration building in Yorkville, Illinois, architect Cordogan, Clark and Associates originally specified the floor to be a combination of epoxy terrazzo and grouted tile, requiring two installers. Yet after working with Sherwin-Williams Architectural Account Executive, Susan Sienkowski, and Flooring Sales Representative, Sebastian Sole, the project was switched entirely to terrazzo. The High Performance Flooring team discussed the life cycle cost advantages, improved maintenance, and enhanced decorative elements of terrazzo. Additionally, Sherwin-Williams worked to streamline schedules and consolidate the flooring installation to a single contractor, resulting in improved costs for the client. The top-notch support and relationships led the architect to choose Sherwin-Williams as their floor coating supplier.

DETAILED TILE DESIGN CONVERTED TO TERRAZZO

The process began in the first quarter of 2024 with design discussions and ordering terrazzo samples for the client to view. By July 2024, the floor installation was complete. Using the Sherwin-Williams ColorSnap® design tool, the team was able to use Sherwin-Williams paint colors in High Reflective White, In the Navy and Dovetail to create custom terrazzo blends. To achieve the desired artistic pattern, flooring installer CCI Flooring began by shot-blasting the surface and placing carefully measured divider strips into the epoxy base. Following the surface preparation, the terrazzo was then troweled, poured into place and polished. In total, three hundred gallons of Resuflor™ Terrazzo TG were used to complete the project.

Thanks to the Sherwin-Williams High Performance Flooring team, visitors of the new Kendall County Administration building will be able to enjoy the beautiful floors for years to come.
